TILTINRATEHEARING

North Carolina in Clash With Southern Road.

STATE WANTS LOOK AT BOOKS

Freight Traffic Manager Green Declares Rates on Interstate Business Are Reasonable-Work on Improvements Abandoned Because of Difficulties in Securing New Capital.

The North Carolina rate hearing was enlivened yesterday by a sharp controversy between the lawyers, General Counsel Thom, of the Southern Railway, protested against introducing testimony to show what salaries were paid by roads other than the Southern to officers who act for those roads as well as the South-

The master sustained the objection on the ground that the Southern was the only road involved in the hearing.

Speaker Justice, of the North Carolina house of representatives, was not satisfied with this ruling, and said that his purpose was to show that the Southern Railway Company was resorting to a "subterfuge" to conceal the amounts paid to its general officers. Mr. Thom protested vigorously against this statement, declaring that there is nothing to justify the assumption that the company is guilty of any subterfuge, but that the statement of Mr. Justice was a violation of the ethics of the legal profession.

Another Disagreement Arises. This matter was finally dropped, but there was almost immediately another disagrement as to a proposition made by Mr. Justice to have a representative of the State examine the books of the Southern Railway Company prior to being put on the stand as a witness on behalf of the State. Mr. Thom objected to any such proceeding, making it plain that the Southern Rallway Company would not place obstacles in the way of the verification of any testimony that had been introduced by reference to its books, under the supervision of the master, but declared that the company could not permit an examination in the form of a fishing

The abandonment or postponement of much improvement work had been neces sary, although this work was urgently needed. There were substantial difficult ties in getting new capital and in secur ing labor and materials. In order to se new capital, a railway compan would have to show prosperous and profitable operation, and the assurance fair and safe return on the investment. It was not now possible to get money, and this had made it necessary to dis-continue and postpone improvement work.

JOSEPH FORNEY JOHNSTON.

United States Senator Joseph Forney Johnston, of Alaoama, who succeeds the late Senator Pettus, is a native of Lincoln County, N. C. When the civil war came on he was attending high school. He entered the Confederate service as a private, and was promoted to the grade of captain early in the war, during which he was wounded four times. Capt. Johnston began the practice of law at Selma, Ala., in 1866, and built up a large and lucrative practice. He was chairman of the Democratic executive ommittee in 1874, when Alabama was redeemed from the carpet-bagger regime. In 1884 he moved to Birmingham, the largest industrial center of the State, when he became president of the Alabama National Bank, and also president of the Sloss Iron and Steel Foundry Co. In these enterprises Capt. Johnston demonstrated splendid business qualities, from which he made a magnificent fortune, and he is regarded as the foremost influential business man of Birningham. He entered politics in 1894 as a gubernatorial candidate, but failed in securing the nomination. He was elected, however, in 1896, and served four years, making one of the most popular governors in the history of Alabama. Senator Johnston will be the wealthiest Senator from the South. He is a member of the Episcopal Church.

Senator John Hollis Bankhead, of Fayette, Ala., who will succeed the late John Tyler Morgan, was born in Moscow. Marion County, Ala., in 1842. In the stringent times of that period Mr. Bankhead was forced to educate himself. By purchasing books as soon as he was able he studied for many years, and is now considered one of the most cultured men in the State. He began life as a this alarming state. Within a very short farmer, but at the commencement of the civil war he time the number of deaths from these joined the Confederate army, in which he served in many two causes has doubled, though pneu desperate encounters, being three times wounded. His political career began in 1865, when he represented Marion County in the general assembly. He also held this position in 1865, 1866, and 1867, when he retired for a time until he was elected State senator in 1876 and State representative in 1880. From 1881 until 1885 he was warden of the State penitentiary, where he won the respect and admira- fore. tion of the whole State by his generous and, at the same time, just conduct. At the conclusion of his term of office he was elected to the House of Representatives. He has served nine terms, which gives evidence of the esteem in which he is held by the people of his State. On the death of Senator Morgan he was made United States Senator to ill out the unexpired term.

Member of New York Board of Education Declares that Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's Claims Arc but a Thing of Dreams-Hope of Longevity Held Out to the Children Only.

New York, Sept. 27 .- If you are fair and forty and consider yourself a fit subject for the centenarian class of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry and a food expert of some renown, prepare yourself for disappointment and resign yourself to fate, for your hopes can never be realized with the present statistics staring you in the face.

The increased span of life which Dr. Wiley claims is upon us is in reality but a thing of dreams, and three-score and ten will still continue to be the usual allotment of men. It is to children only that the hope of
